Officer Involved Critical Incident – Bernard Park – 1105 Bernard
Ave., Findlay, OH 45840

Investigative Activity: Review of Records
Involves: Calvin Darapheth (V)
Date of Activity: 11/14/2024
Author: SA Joshua S. Rammel, #175

Narrative:

On November 14, 2024, Special Agent (SA) Josh Rammel (Rammel) of the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation (BCI) completed the review of all social media information provided by the Findlay Police Department (FPD) regarding the Officer Involved Critical Incident (OICI) that took place at 1105 Bernard Avenue, Findlay, Ohio on October 28, 2024.

The social media information provided was divided into two categories: general social media posts regarding the OICI and the social media accounts regarding the involved juvenile Calvin Darapheth (Calvin).

1. SA Rammel observed the following information contained in the general social media posts.
 - A. The majority of posts from unrelated individuals contained arguments about what actually occurred during the OICI including unfounded rumors that another juvenile shot at police instead of Calvin, and that Calvin actually pulled out his phone as the police shot him. Some of the rumors subsided as the time-distance from the OICI passed.
 - B. There were multiple posts where unrelated individuals were commenting that Calvin's aunt was telling everyone that Calvin did not have a gun, nor did Calvin have any alcohol.
 - C. There were several posts talking about Calvin's memorial and information regarding a Go Fund Me page created for Calvin's family.
 - D. There were multiple mentions of a doorbell camera catching the gun shots on audio. The response to this was negative criticism of the FPD for firing multiple times at Calvin as Calvin ran away. A recording of the pertinent doorbell camera was attached with the social media information. SA Rammel discussed the doorbell camera footage with SA Tiffany Najmulski (Najmulski). SA Najmulski advised that she already reviewed the doorbell footage and was addressing it in a separate Investigative Report (IR).
 - E. The only general social media post that was deemed important to the investigation was a Facebook post from username "Jodi Lynn (Jodi)". Jodi commented to username "Jennifer Elliot Butler (Butler)" "we are good. Never seen anything like that before. Sat on my couch and see the whole thing". See IR 17, authored by SA Rammel, for the follow up interview with Jodi.

2. SA Rammel observed the following information from the social media accounts identified as belonging to Calvin.

A. SA Rammel identified and reviewed Facebook account information from username "Kalvin Daraphet". Multiple images observed on the title page of the account clearly identifying the account as belonging to Calvin. The Instagram account "azvin_music" was attached to the account. An image of Calvin and another unidentified individual defacing a pillar to a building was observed, during which Calvin was drinking an unknown pink bottle that appeared to be alcohol.

B. SA Rammel reviewed all Instagram accounts belonging to Calvin.

a. Instagram account "azvin_music" was set to private but was attached to YouTube account "AZVin27".

b. Instagram account "Kalvin419567" appears to be an older account due to Calvin appearing young. An image of a black handgun with serial number "JO41833" was posted on the account. The handgun was identified as a Grand Power G9 with the number "9P.A. Knall" visible on the side of the handgun. A Grand Power G9 with the designation "9P.A. Knall" indicates that gun is a non-lethal gas pistol noise making gun.

c. Instagram account "watermelonslice.1" identified Calvin as the operator of the account. No additional important details were observed in the attached images.

C. TikTok account "kalvendarapheth" was reviewed. No information was observed, and no images clearly identifying the account as belonging to Calvin were observed.

D. YouTube account "Azvin27" utilizing screen name "AZvin" was reviewed by SA Rammel. The image of the account appears to be Calvin holding up a potential gang sign. Multiple songs performed by Calvin and additional individuals were posted on this account. All of the songs contain multiple racial slurs, threats of physical violence against other individuals, threats of violence specifically to "niggers, bitches, and snitches", multiple mentions that the rapper of the song carries a "pole" and knives, and one song dedicated to the rapper being a member of the Crip gang. Per the contents of the songs the term "pole" refers to a gun.

The social media information provided by the FPD was attached to this investigation. See the attachments for complete details.

Support for Funeral Expenses of a Teen

Vida Inthavong is organizing this fundraiser.

Donation protected

As a parent, this is the worst decision you can make. Making funeral arrangements for your teenage child that was killed all of a sudden due to misunderstanding during a gun fire. With the cost of funeral expenses we are asking for some help. If you are able to help, we would appreciate it. Thank you for all the support and love.

If he truly shot at police and had a gun, justified all day. Consuming alcohol at a park at 17 and having a gun, parents needs charged if that's the case.

Update just to clarify....
My question is how much of a threat was this kid?? he was running from the officer meaning his back was to him... Did it really require that many shots to the back...I mean think about it... Nobody saying that this kid allegedly didn't threaten the officer with one gunshot and it could have hit an innocent bystander... I understand protecting the community as well but if the kid only fired one shot and his back was turned to the officer then why did that officer feel the need to shoot the eight that he shot? Especially if he had got them in the leg and could have dropped him and then put cuffs on them and probably saved his life too. There is a family that lost a child..

Amanda Stapleton true it's a shame but would you be saying this if cop had shot him in leg dropped him then as the cop was cuffing him he turned and emptied his gun into the cop. At 17 he should have known the chances he was taking Teresa Clementz if you're shot I don't think you'd be thinking about firing back because the gun would probably fly out of your hands as you fell..I'm not by any means making excuses but I see the big picture and logic...

Amanda Stapleton when it's your family member who is risking their life are you going to ask how much of a threat was this individual just because they only shot once? We don't know who shot how many times so we can't speculate. Yeah the aunt said he didn't have a gun but my guess is she probably didn't know he was out drinking with his friends either.

Amanda Stapleton cops aren't trained for accuracy or subtlety. They are trained to shoot to kill. So typically when cops start shooting, it's their intent to kill. Period. I mean obviously this may have been a situation where a cop could have used some restraint and not immediately returned fire and gunned him down. But without all the exact details of how far the kid was away from the cop. How much that single shot was actually pointed at the cop or how close they were to innocent people. It's hard to completely judge

Amanda Stapleton long story short as having lived the life. Once shots are fired at police, we are trained to disable and neutralize the threat period. Doesn't matter how many shots it takes. I feel for the family and friends that were affected. But at the end of the day officer safety is top priority after being shot at.

It's a very sad situation. However, the kid had a gun. He shot it at a police officer, Then he got shot. Is it tragic?!? Absolutely! Could it have been prevented?!? Absolutely. The child should have never had a gun! He should have never shot it at cops. And this whole situation would've been avoided. Period. I hope this is a lesson to parents and to kids. May that child who was failed by his parents, rest in peace.

Tiffany Bruce I don't know anything about that. I just know that my 17 year old son never had access to a gun... and I also know that he was taught better than to shoot/use a weapon of any kind on a police officer... or another human being. Tragic event all around, and I hope for healing.

Adam Crofts he had a gun. He shot the gun at the cop. He ran from the cop. I'm the first one to say that police lean toward shoot first, ask questions later. However, there is ring camera footage, a gun recovered from the scene... the kid messed up. It's tragic. I'm not saying it's not. I'm not even saying it's his fault. He was a child. Where are the parents? How did he have the gun?!? Why did he have it?! I could go on and on about our duties as parents to these children.

Chelsey McClure agree with everything ,except saying the parent failed, I as a kid was just like him. I had this idea at 15 no one was going to control me ,I did what I wanted and it had nothing to do with my mom she was great and still is .

Deborah Potter the no idea what you were doing part is fair. However, I can't wrap my mind around where these kids are getting guns. Why they are getting guns. Why they find it okay to shoot them at all... let alone at a police officer. Someone has to take responsibility for that. Unfortunately, since the kiddo was underage, that's the parent/parents.

Chelsey McClure When I was in high school we were allowed to take our shotguns and rifles to school during hunting season. During my entire time in the Toledo school system there was never a school shooting that I can remember. Most of us boys carried a pocket knife. Many high schools had rifle teams. Just about all of my friends had BB guns. When we did have a beef with someone it was one on one not a gang beat down. I will not say a weapon was never used but it was very rare. I grew up in "LaGrinka", Polish village. So peaceful you could leave the house unlocked and the windows down on your car with no worries. Now that area is a snake pit. I would never walk there alone unarmed. Yes we had the usual neighborhood bullies. But nothing like today. And not just in Toledo it is spreading everywhere.

Chris Ritchey Grunden well I'm just saying underage drinking is not a death sentence! Running from the cops is not a death sentence. Hell people who kill other people don't get a death sentence! You can incapacitate someone without killing them. He was a child. I know adults without critical thinking skills, he was a child.

Bobbi Danner do you recall Janelle Mauricio? She was the last person to be murdered in Fostoria. She was shot, IN THE LEG. Go ahead and go through academy training. Put yourself in life or death situations. Let someone shoot at you and see how that pans out. You people can arm chair quarterback all day long but you don't know the facts and you don't know what it's like to be in that situation. You literally know nothing about the kid other than he was "a kid"...how many times has he been in trouble with the law prior to this (to clarify, you have no idea what type of person this kid was) Of course mom is going to say he didn't have a gun. By the way, there are plenty of videos on the internet where suspects are shooting while being pursued. You're old enough to have more common sense than this.

Haydee Sadler for City of Findlay Mayor this started with Brown Macke and has gone down hill from there. I have always wondered why Findlay keeps getting rated as "a good place to raise kids" all that's here is drugs and alcohol. There is nothing for our kids and teens to do! We need a rec Center that people can afford. A place these teen boys/girls needing direction can go play basketball, hang out and have good role models!

Rumors abound as Findlay City Mayor Muryn is being accused of reaching out to Springfield, Ohio in an attempt to find employees for ROKI Rubber and other local factories within the industrial park area.

The rumors suggest that neighboring Springfield is sending over a group of Haitians to address this need. I have personally witnessed a significant number of Haitians at my own place of employment (Venue of employment undisclosed so as to maintain my employment). I have personally had to bear witness to the obvious difficulties with the language barrier these non english speaking people have caused. A frustrated woman who was being told that she had to show a photo i.d. before entering the facility was so frustrated trying to communicate that she demanded the security guard "use google." Seeing the quizzical expression on his face I stepped in and said, "She wants you to use Google translate." Of course, he didn't feel obligated, nor should he have felt obligated to do so. He replied, "I'm not going to do that."

Please understand that mentioning the language barrier is not to take away from the fact that they are hard workers. It just makes it harder to work with them. Aside from pointing, grunting, and other caveman actions I have had to use to communicate with these people my experience has been a pleasant, oftentimes frustrating one. I can only imagine how other english speaking people at work must feel. Heck, even the Russian guy I work with speaks english!

Mayor Muryn, if you are reaching out to neighboring communities for employees (Though I don't understand why a mayor would be doing an employer's job.) you need to make American Citizens a first priority.

Joey Stratz you have never been in this kids shoes, or his mother's, or his cousins. honestly, you wanna sit here and get mad that people are defending a child. his LOVED ONES are defending him. honestly open your eyes realize that regardless of the right or wrong in this situation, a child is DEAD now. people will grieve him. my little brother will never see one of his closest friends and my friend will never see her best friend again. what a cruel man you are and i hope you never have children, and if you do they'll see how disgusting you are

Terra Rose cruel? It's not being cruel, it's called being held accountable for your actions, something you people don't understand. Yes it is sad that he was killed, but at the end of the day the kid was in the wrong. That police officer is also someone's father, son, brother, husband. And my children will be raised to know that they will be held accountable for their actions.

1d Like Reply

Terra Rose

Joey Stratz it's not accountability. the person supposed to be taken accountable is dead. that's where it gets cruel. when you are talking this way about a dead child. i don't understand how you don't see that. making big mistakes is one thing. but commenting under a post about a dead child and BLAMING him to everyone who's grieving or defending or saying anything nice about him. THATS CRUEL.

1d Like Reply

Joey Stratz

Terra Rose If you're a juvenile who deems himself old enough to carry a gun and consume alcohol, and has the guts to shoot at a police officer, you best be aware of the potential consequences. You say I'm cruel, but I'm sorry, but the world is cruel. If the kid hadn't opened fire, then I would say he was wrongfully killed. But the second you pull the trigger, all means of a peaceful arrest are out the window. Sorry, but that's the way of self defense.

1d Like Reply

Terra Rose sorry Terra. but when stuff gets posted on Facebook, people are going to post their opinion. Whether you like it or not. Whether you think it's cruel, I really don't care. Yes, it is someone's loved one. And I do feel deeply sorry for the loss of their child. I lost my dad at 16. I have been through tragic loss. I am sorry for the family's loss, but I am not sorry for the way the officer handled the situation.

1d Like Reply

Joey Stratz nobody is talking about the way the officer handled the situation when it comes to my specific conversation with you. i'm talking about why you feel the need to comment your "opinion" (blatantly bullying and blaming a deceased child for his actions made out of fear when he probably grew up around adults who acted like that)

I bet his 2 friends think twice about drinking and guns they don't mix well in public parks while being under the age. I am so sorry for the family but many of us has lost our children in findlay to their decision making and don't know who our children's killers were. I guess this family and the community knows who pulled the trigger on this child. Extra prayers to the officer involved but we are all humans if someone is shooting at us obviously we all would fire back just as the officer did. He could have a wife and kids at home and his kids don't deserve no daddy like my grandbabies suffer every day NO DAD !!! IM TRULY SORRY FOR ALL INVOLVED. How old was this young man?? Adria Baney that child would still be alive had he not pulled a gun and shot at an officer, all while running. I don't think anyone is saying they are happy with the outcome, just the fact that no one else lost their life in this senseless act, that very well could have been prevented had the child been taught to respect law enforcement.

Tonya Miller that report doesn't really give a detailed description of what happened, but from reading comments and everything else that cops do in today's society, when is it as a whole that we hold cops to a higher standard? Their sole job is to protect. So when they know they are coming into a situation with CHILDREN, that are not committing violent acts, but consuming alcoholic beverages (not saying it's right, I'm just saying what the report says), and a flee happens, I'm seeing in the comments that one shot was let off from the kid.. as a regular person, yes let the clip go on whoever's the threat. But a cop? A cop is supposed to be properly trained in highly stressful situations, so they aren't unloading 9-10 bullets into a CHILD, when one or 2 shots should have been able to get the kid down. All of these responses I see ppl saying things along the lines of "i would fire back like that too if someone shot at me." Sure maybe you would, but a cop should not be responding to situations the same way everyday ppl are, bc they have that title of being a police officer. Do I think that's a scary situation? Absolutely, that's why I would never sign myself up to do a job like that bc ik I would most likely react in a way I shouldn't. But at the end of the day, the training with police needs to get better, bc the same excessive use storyline is too common and sad. I hope that family gets Justice and that cop is no longer a cop until he is trained to deal with those kind of situations better (realistically we all know he won't get fired sadly).

20h Like Reply

Tonya Miller

Liliana Velazquez almost 18 should know right from wrong. If you shoot at anyone they will shoot back. I hate that the young man made that choice. We make choices we have consequences, unfortunately this a very bad outcome. I am praying for all touched by the situation.

19h Like Reply

Liliana Velazquez

Tonya Miller you just proved my point exactly. Yes you shoot at ANY REGULAR person, expect to be shot probably more times than needed. Bc we are all not trained on how to respond to situations like that. Shoot at a cop and you're a KID on top of that, we as a society should all be able to agree that that cop should have a higher expectation on them than to act like just ANYONE and unload an entire clip on a CHILD. Until our society can acknowledge to that and allowing our cops to behave as if they are on the same level as you and I, then it will continue to get worse bc we will continuously get more divided.

Levi Hardwick the UK has basically done that. I was talking to a person in England on Facebook and he told me it's illegal to carry any type of knife, even a pocket knife, on your person. You are allowed to have food prep knives in your home but if you're moving them they have to be secured in a box, not loose and open. You can't have firearms either. So basically you are not allowed to defend yourself, ever.

Kari Mahler as a teen myself i know it's sad and scary but i've seen it for myself it's not the kids it's the way they've been raised or lack of parenting some of these kids i've met are my age and don't have any family responsible enough or that cares enough to take care of them we don't know his situation or any of there's but from the pattern i've seen in many other young adults and teens is that when they go without that structure in their lives this happens and it's sad to think if the parents cared to step in and PARENT tragedies like these might happen a whole lot less

The poor boy didn't make it. He died. Even if he did fire first, a trained police officer should be a good enough shot to take down a CHILD without fatally shooting them. This is an outrageous tragedy. My heart goes out to the poor boy's mother and younger brothers.

Scott Bryant
Kat Kay Maybe you don't realize that your ideology is highly askew. In that instant that someone fires a weapon at law enforcement, that instant becomes life and death, and you can bet that law enforcement is not going to concern themselves with the age of said person firing.
Training does not include non lethal means of self defense. There is no policy on shooting to disarm or injure with love rounds.
This is tragic, but it can't be changed. Law enforcement did EXACTLY what they are trained to do.

Kat Kay
Scott Bryant then their training needs to change. They should be able to take people down without killing them. Maybe that's just ignorance or wishful thinking on my part, but coming from a family full of hunters and Military men who I feel would probably be capable of doing so, I don't see why better marksmanship isn't already or can't be made a standard part of police training.
Also perplexed since the boy's mom said they found no gun on him. I really hope they release the bodycam footage as public record. I know they'd have to blur all the minors, but I'm so curious if the boy really even fired first like they're saying. Either way, his poor mother needs and deserves closure so I hope she eventually gets to know what truly happened.

Barbara Deitrick and let's just be clear... this incident happened back in April of this year. My girlfriend and her son were stalked and harassed for nearly 6 months until she had to pay for an attorney to get a protection order to stop the stalking and harassment because the police refused to do anything. Including Phillip Riegle who is running judge has refused to charge anyone with crimes. Same with the Findlay Prosecutor

Barbara Deitrick it's becoming that. Why else would I have to fight off a child and 3 adults over a child bullying another child? Let alone be arrested for it and the people who are sworn to serve and protect. do nothing? Some of these people are elected and are going for re-election to better offices. The problems are only going to get worse when we continue to allow these Stewards to remain at the helm! I'll give the Chief his due credit though. Because I had to raise concerns directly to him about his officer's conduct. and feel he ensured his officers properly conduct themselves better in the future.

1d Like Reply

Mike Wayne you're not wrong about the parents, but this problem has roots much deeper... when kids grow up and see the people in charge breaking the rules, they tend not to follow the rules themselves. So the real problem is lead by example and the example that's leading is not a very good one.

Matt Cook
Mike Wayne you can blame parents for sure, but when all a kid has to do is turn on the tv, Facebook, YouTube, or TikTok, and see people in charge with money and power cheating the system and breaking the rules, then it's clear there's no real examples of good role models anymore.

Mik Stokely not always their parents. Back in the 90s kids were running around with guns here. Some people may not remember those times though. I grew up in those times, seen guns easily accessible by teens and older since. Teens can get wrapped up in drug dealing and gangs just as easily now if not easier. Both involve guns if you're smart and want to survive if people actually take it seriously.

Ryan Caudillo Or maybe the messaging could be changed too.. if your kid is in trouble and you don't know how to control them get the cops involved sooner so they can help guide you to local resources that can support you and your child get through the trouble spots of being a teen. We have to let parents know the help is here! The kids need to know it takes strength to speak up when they are struggling. We have to be proactive and not shame people who are struggling- that's the stigma that holds people back from getting help.

Ryan Caudillo I understand your thought, but it's not airways accurate. As an adult looking back, my parents were about as perfect as could be. As a teen, I hated them. They were perfect role models, worked hard, non smokers, I only ever saw my dad drink once in my life. However, I rebelled, got involved with the wrong crowd, began drinking, smoking both cigarettes and pot, My parents knew something was up and I spent a lot of time getting lectured and grounded, but honestly, they couldn't completely stop me. However, when my friends started experimenting with harder substances, those lectures were in the back of my mind, and I backed away and eventually left the group altogether. So yes, my parents did do the right thing and ground me, lecture me, etc. But there were several occasions that could've ended very badly and I was lucky to not have anything go terribly wrong.

Theresa Marie that doesn't even make sense. This country has not tried gun bans or strict gun laws. Australia had a mass shooting in 2016 and within 10 days of it implemented strict gun laws pretty much making them illegal. They are very successful at keeping their citizens safe.

Just saying, I'm not anti gun but I see it like this-if you can't handle chewing gum in class, the whole class loses its privilege. And we clearly can't handle this privilege. They do more harm than good Daniel White for one. Yes. Some people ruin it for everyone, and everyone gets punished. True.

Also, the mindset of saying "that will never work" is just something people like to say to justify their beliefs. Can you completely stop people from getting guns, no. Can you absolutely lower the number of guns floating around out there and decrease gun crime significantly-yes. Look up Australia's gun laws, though they aren't the only country that has them. The UK, Ireland, Norway, even cops there don't carry guns. They have a very low rate of gun violence. Just a fact.

Jeanna Hernandez lol this 17 year old had a pistol (needs to be 21..1 law broken). Most likely a stolen gun (probably 2nd law broken). Having control of a fire arm under the influence of drugs/alcohol .. (3rd law broken). Running from a police officer (4th law broken). Shooting at a police officer (5th law broken). Discharging a firearm in city limits (6 law broken).

Please tell me again how more gun laws would prevent this? ... I'll wait Jeanna Hernandez it makes perfect sense being that Chicago has some of the strictest gun laws in the US, but also the highest crime rate. Evil will always be evil. They won't stop at guns.

If someone forces themselves into your home in the middle of the night, you will be praying you had a way to defend yourself against them. I will protect mine because our constitution says I have the right to keep and bear arms.

Jeanna Hernandez Australia doesn't have an amendment to their constitution stopping the government from taking their liberty and freedom away with the stroke of a pen. You are incorrect, political parties have tried to strip us of our means of self defense many times. Because of the forethought of our founders, they failed.

Adria Baney that child would still be alive had he not pulled a gun and shot at an officer, all while running. I don't think anyone is saying they are happy with the outcome, just the fact that no one else lost their life in this senseless act, that very well could have been prevented had the child been taught to respect law enforcement.

Cyenna Ryndell if the story of the 17 year old first pulling the trigger is correct, the cop was defending himself/herself. However, if it's true the cop shot 8 times, that's excessive. Mik Stokely not always their parents. Back in the 90s kids were running around with guns here. Some people may not remember those times though. I grew up in those times, seen guns easily accessible by teens and older since. Teens can get wrapped up in drug dealing and gangs just as easily now if not easier. Both involve guns if you're smart and want to survive if people actually take it seriously.

Ryan Caudillo Or maybe the messaging could be changed too.. if your kid is in trouble and you don't know how to control them get the cops involved sooner so they can help guide you to local resources that can support you and your child get through the trouble spots or being a teen. We have to let parents know the help is here! The kids need to know it takes strength to speak up when they are struggling. We have to be proactive and not shame people who are struggling- that's the stigma that holds people back from getting help.

Redacted???? Really? I get blurring out the child but the footage needs to be released to its fullest. I truly hope the parents go full force on the investigation to make sure everything comes to light. There are details that are just not matching up with this report. Yes there are many rumors and people making speculations that need to stop! As a parent and grandparent of kids that knew this kid some stuff is just not adding up. I am not saying the cops were wrong or right in this situation I was not there but there are details that are not included in this statement. I feel bad for EVERYONE involved especially the parents and the 2 other kids that watched their friend get shot. That has to be traumatizing for them.
Please keep all these people in your thoughts and prayers.

Janette Ann Nault-Nalle stuff doesn't add up when mom thinks her son is innocent yet he runs from the police and fires a gun at them. But people get mad when the police protect themselves especially when being shot at! So many of today's youth have not been taught responsibility and to be respectful. They need to learn that there are consequences to illegal activity and bad choices.

Connie Seller but again I say I was not there so I am not making any assumptions on either part. But I also do not blindly follow statements made just because a badge said so. I wait for the investigation to say what really happened on both counts. Like I originally said I do not know if the cops were right or wrong I do not know if the kid did this or that I was not there so I personally think everyone should stop saying this happened this way... FYI if everything was cut and dry like they are saying then there would not be this hard of an investigation happening.

But who am I ... just a mom who wishes the world was like it was when I was a kid.

Larry Swisher well I guess I don't have to do any of that because you already took care of that on your post about the situation. "Good thinking or upbringing" seriously?

I at least I am not being judge and jury here....

All I said is some things don't add up. You don't even live around here. Do you know the family? Do you know any of the kids this child hug out with? You read a post and blindly follow the bad. I am sitting here with a open mind considering the information that is out there.

I don't get why the sarcastic comment because I said things don't add up. Sorry I'm not a sheep I have thoughts and opinions of my own.

But you have yourself an amazing day and go out there and make someone smile today!!!

Janette Ann Nault-Nalle "facts that happened"? Whose facts are you talking about? Because people NEVER lie to get out of trouble. (On both sides)

Look I do not know the situation on either side. I'm gonna wait for the report and then make my decision. In the meantime, I am going to sit back and pray for ALL involved. This was a bad situation. Oh, and "the parents need to be involved in the investigation"? Really? Because they aren't biased in this situation? What they need to do is get a good lawyer and start telling their side if the story. I am sure all involved will be questioned. This stuff takes time and people need to let the family grieve. And finally, no not every parent believes their child is innocent. There are parents out there that know their child is guilty and will still cry injustice.

Brenda Atkins Swerlein um wow Good Morning sunshine!!! I do believe I said all of what you said in all my comments maybe worded it differently who knows. Everyone assumes the facts I speak of are one way or another never said either way....

I have also stated that I feel heart broken for EVERYONE involved and made sure I put that in all caps so people would get the point that I am not taking sides, but I guess... oh never mind I will just leave that one go....

Yes the parents need to be involved in the investigation!!! Now let's use our thinking skills here. Okay? What can parents do legally in a investigation???

They ask questions they don't let everyone fill their heads with misinformation they talk to and cooperate with the authorities and if anyone comes to them with "their side of the story" they direct them to talk to the ones handling the investigation. Make sure help the investigating officers not stop the investigation. I did not say they go investigate themselves!

And when I said all parents think their child is innocent I meant that sarcastically!! Like seriously you went above and beyond to pick apart the things I said when in reality all I said was I hope the parents go full force in the investigation to make sure everything comes to light.... meaning for EVERYONE. Once everything come to light maybe that will help the parents have closure and the city to have closure so everyone will stop blaming this person or that person!!!

At the end of the day all anyone wants is justice for EVERYONE involved. I 100% understand the parents are heartbroken I could not imagine loosing a child in this manner or in any way, but I'm sure that officer is not in the best shape right now either. Yes in the moment shooting out of self defense or whatever reason but then to look in the face of the child after has to take a toll on them.

Yes I know lots of people that are close friends with this kid and his family, but at the same time I studied forensic science and criminal law so I see both sides of this.

So before anyone else wants to get their panties in a bunch why don't you really pay attention to what and how things were said!!!

Have a beautiful day! Go out and make the world a better place on good deed at a time!!!

Janette Ann Nault-Nalle Good afternoon. Just to let you know I wake up happy everyday. I was only commenting on what you were saying because, yes, it seems to veer a little to one side. I totally meant no malice in what I was saying and I can assure no comment on the internet will wad my panties. Nor was I being condescending..... I am sorry I was the umpteenth person to comment and you felt you needed to unload on me. But it's all good. Have a blessed rest of your day.

A call for kids drinking beer ended up with a dead kid. You don't think there are reasons for questions? If it went like they said then it is a clean shot. They absolutely do owe the community the burden of proof.

"We want to see the body cam": Aunt speaks out after she says her nephew was fatally shot by Findlay police officer

Loved ones of Calvin Darapheth, a 17-year-old whose family identified him as the person fatally shot by a Findlay police officer during a foot pursuit on Monday,

"He was shy, quiet but if he was close to you, he could be funny," Calvin's aunt, Lena Darapheth, said.

In a press release Tuesday morning, Findlay police said the juvenile shot in the incident had died. Police have not released the name or age of the juvenile, but Calvin's family told WTOL 11 it was him.

Lena said Calvin's death still doesn't "feel like it's real" and that "it hasn't sunk in."

A Findlay resident provided WTOL 11 with home security camera footage they say captured the sound of multiple gunshots from the incident. The footage does not show the actual shooting, though.

It is unclear at this time how many times Calvin or the police officer, who has not been identified, fired shots. Lena says the amount of gunshots heard was excessive, though, and she believes Calvin did not have a gun.

"One is enough on his leg," she said. "You don't need to kill him. This is not a war."

Philip Stinson, a criminal justice professor at Bowling Green State University who studies police misconduct, said more information needs to come out before anyone can make judgments.

The Findlay Police Department said in a press release on Tuesday it is working with the Ohio BCI and the Hancock County Prosecutor's Office "on releasing redacted information in the near future regarding Axon Body Worn Camera footage."

"Sometimes the initial statements made by officers, the reports that are written by officers involved in these incidents, turn out to be inaccurate. Sometimes the statements and reports are factually inconsistent with the video evidence," Stinson said.

The body camera footage is exactly what Lena says Calvin's family wants to see.

"We want to see the body cam," she said. "(To see) if he had a gun."

Findlay Police Chief James Mathias said Wednesday that two patrol officers are on "paid critical incident leave status" as a result of the incident.

An autopsy conducted by the Lucas County Coroner's Office said Darapheth died from multiple gunshot wounds and his death has been ruled a homicide.
