PROSECUTOR: GRAND JURY PRESENTATION “UNNECESSARY” IN BUTLER TOWNSHIP SHOOTINGS

(MOUNT VERNON) After receiving the results of an extensive investigation by Ohio BCI, Knox County Prosecutor Chip McConville has concluded that no grand jury review is necessary in a June incident that left two Butler Township residents dead. “The BCI investigation found that the incident amounted to a murder-suicide,” McConville said.

When Knox County Sheriff’s deputies responded to the reported domestic incident on Busenberg Road on June 5, they encountered Lloyd Ray, who fired shots at them. [REDACTED] returned fire, but his shots did not strike Ray. During the confrontation, Ray fatally shot his girlfriend Laurretta Beltz with a .22 caliber rifle and then fired additional shots at the deputies who had taken cover behind their vehicles outside the home. Ray later took his own life with the .22 rifle.

In previous officer-involved shootings in Knox County in recent years, the cases have been presented to the Grand Jury to decide whether the use of force was reasonable, McConville said. However, in those cases, officers had fatally shot suspects who were using deadly force against them or other persons. “Here, no injuries were inflicted by Knox County deputies, thus no grand jury presentation is necessary.” McConville added.

The BCI investigation was requested by Sheriff Daniel Weckesser on June 5, and included agents from BCI’s Force Investigations Unit, Crime Scene Unit, Cyber Crime Unit, and the BCI Laboratory.

“I appreciate the willingness of Attorney General Dave Yost to take on these investigations and make resources available to Knox County,” McConville said. “These investigations are always exhaustive in scope and unbiased in their presentation.”
