APPROVAL—CERTIFICATION OF PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE I OF THE OHIO CONSTITUTION.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, December 14, 1937.

MR. EDWARD LAMB, Attorney at Law, 1014 Edison Bldg., Toledo, Ohio.

DEAR SIR: You have submitted for my examination a written petition signed by one hundred qualified electors of this state, containing a proposed constitutional amendment and a summary of the same under section 4785-175, General Code. It is proposed to amend Section 16 of Article I of the Constitution of Ohio, so that the same shall read as follows:

“The courts shall be open, and every person for an injury done him in his land, goods, person, or reputation, shall have remedy by due course of law, and shall have justice administered without denial or delay; but no court, nor judge, nor judges thereof, now in existence or hereafter created, established, appointed, elected, or in existence by any manner or means, shall have jurisdiction, to issue any restraining order or temporary or permanent injunction in any case between one or more employers or associations of employers and one or more employees or associations of employees, or between one or more employees or associations of employees and one or more employees or associations of employees, or between one or more employers or associations of employers and one or more employers or associations of employers, or between employer or employee or associations or groups thereof and employer or employee or associations or groups thereof and employer or employee or association or groups thereof or associations, organizations or affiliates of employees whether or not engaged in the same industry, craft, or occupation or directly or indirectly interested therein, or in any case involving or growing out of an industrial, or agricultural dispute, concerning or involving terms or conditions of employment, or the association or representation of persons indicating, fixing, maintaining, changing, or seeking to arrange terms or conditions of employment, regardless of whether or not the disputants stand in the proximate relation of employer and employee. Suits may be brought against the state, in such courts and in such a manner as may be provided by law."

The summary of this amendment reads as follows:

"The proposed amendment to Article I, Section 16 of the Constitution of the State of Ohio provides that no courts now established or hereafter created or judges thereof either elected or appointed or hereafter elected or appointed shall have jurisdiction to restrain or enjoin, either by permanent or temporary injunction, employers, employees, or groups or associations thereof, from engaging in labor or agricultural disputes, whether or not the employees or groups thereof are engaged in the same industry, craft, or occupation or directly or indirectly interested therein.

Further, this amendment includes in the class of disputes in which the courts shall have no jurisdiction as aforesaid, an industrial or agricultural dispute, whether the same concerns or involves conditions or terms of employment or the association or representation of persons seeking to change or arrange terms or conditions of employment, regardless of whether or not the parties to the dispute stand in the proximate relation of employer and employee."

I am of the opinion that the foregoing is a fair and truthful statement of the proposed constitutional amendment and accordingly submit for uses provided by law the following certification:

“Without passing upon the advisability of the adoption of the proposed constitutional amendment, but pursuant to the duties imposed upon me under Section 4785-175, General Code, I hereby certify that the foregoing summary is a fair and truthful statement of the proposed constitutional amendment. HERBERT S. DUFFY, Attorney General.”

Respectfully,

HERBERT S. DUFFY,
Attorney General.
